

WorkLife is an alliance of groups and concerned individuals formed for the purpose of working to raise awareness in the community about your right to enjoy a fair, just and dignified life at work (whether currently in work or out of work) and after work in your leisure and family time.

If you:

- ✓ believe the new workplace legislation is inequitable and wrong for this country
- ✓ have some time and energy to help in a campaign to scrap this legislation
- ✓ are happy to be involved in a group of people from a range of backgrounds, views and experiences, then you may be interested in joining us or being on a mailing list to receive further literature and information about events and activities undertaken by WorkLife.

If you are interested, then please fill in the details shown on the reverse side of this form and send it to:

With all their faults, trade unions have done more for humanity than any other organization of men that ever existed. They have done more for decency, for honesty, for education, for the betterment of the race, for the developing of character in men, than any other association of men.

My friends, it is solidarity of labour we want. We do not want to find fault with each other, but to solidify our forces and say to each other: "We must be together; our masters are joined together and we must do the same thing."
